Three Cords, $1 and $2; six chords, $4.

The system of playing is easily learned. The harp has a great range of harmony and is capable of wonderful effects.
Music Books of thirty pages.

THE COLUMBIA ZITHER.

The Columbia is a simplified German zither and requires no teacher. Our method of instruction is so easy that any one can learn to play the instrument in a very short time. The bass notes are tuned in groups of chords. This is a very attractive feature, as one has the various chords of the key ready to be plucked without effort. As an accompaniment to the voice these chords are invaluable. In connection with the violin, piano and other musical instruments, the Columbia is delightful. It rewards individual skill more than any other harp in existence. We have produced a musical instrument which charms alike the home circle and the concert audience.

Prices, $2.25, $3, $4, $5 and $8, according to size.

A few "EV'RY MONTHS" left. $2 worth of new, bright, attractive music for 10c.

GOING TO WEST POINT.

Li Hung Chang Sails up the Hudson on the Dolphin.

NEW YORK, August 31.—Li Hung Chang and the leading members of his suite, accompanied by a distinguished party of American friends, sailed at 8:10 o'clock this morning, on despatch boat Dolphin, for West Point. The viceroy breakfasted before 7 o'clock. In anticipation of his departure a large crowd assembled in the vicinity of the Waldorf. The viceroy walked to his carriage, which he shared with General Ruger and the interpreter, Lo Feng Lub. Yang Yu, the Chinese minister; Li Wing, secretary of the Chinese legation at Washington; Major G. W. Davis and Captain S. C. Mills followed in the next carriage. Lord Li, the envoy's second son, Lieutenant A. S. Cummings, and the Chinese private secretary, came next. The other members of the party were Chinese, including the viceroy's three cooks. The sedan chair had a carriage to itself. The little procession was headed by mounted policemen. The route was down Fifth avenue and Twenty-fifth street to the pier of the New York Yacht Club.

Li Hung Chang seemed to have been greatly refreshed by his night's sleep. He wore his yellow jacket and peacock feathers. During the mile drive he talked with General Ruger and appeared to be asking many questions. Every now and then he pointed at different buildings as if to learn their uses.

Acting Inspector Brooks and thirty policemen were on duty at the pier. The general public was not admitted. Nearly all the invited guests had preceded the viceroy. They included Colonel Fred Grant, Hon. John W. Foster, General McAlpin, Colonel J. J. McCook, General Fitzgerald, General J. H. Wilson, Colonel Strong, Colonel Appleton of the Seventh regiment, General Horace Porter, Hon. John Russell Young and Mr. Seward, minister to China.

The boat was manned with a lieutenant and a crew of eight men. The Chinese flag floated from the bow. Li seated himself in the stern. Before doing so the seamen with uplifted oars saluted him. General Ruger and Li King Shu, the viceroy's second son, occupied the next seat to the viceroy. The shrill piping of the boat's whistle was the signal to start to the Dolphin, which lay anchored out in the stream. The oarsmen pulled vigorously and were soon alongside the vessel. When Li reached the top of the ladder he was received by the commander, Captain Clover, and the Dolphin's two guns boomed out in a salute of nineteen guns. Several private steam yachts in the vicinity dipped their flags and blew their whistles. The other visitors came on board in the Dolphin's steam launch. The Dolphin hoisted her anchor at 8:40, and turning round steamed past the Battery and up the Hudson to West Point. The yellow dragon flag of China floated from her foremast, the jack at the bow and the American flag from the stern.

Turkish Mob Attacking Armenians Repulsed by Marines.

CONSTANTINOPLE, August 31.—A special judicial committee began sitting in this city today, for the purpose of trying four hundred Moslems and Armenians who are accused of having participated in the recent rioting in and around Constantinople.

Cahker Pasha and Vendi Pasha have been appointed to the command of the military in Constantinople and Galata respectively, with orders to summarily suppress any signs of disorder.

Italian dispatch boat Galileo has been ordered to Constantinople as a second guardship.

A detachment of British marines, who were marching from the British guardship to the English embassy yesterday, clubbed and beat back a Turkish mob which were maltreating a number of Armenians in the streets. The Porte made a complaint against the conduct of the troops to Mr. Michael Herbert, British chargé d'affaires, who replied that the marines had a perfect right to protect the Armenians if the Turkish troops did not see fit to do so.

DIED ON A TRAIN.

Particulars of the End of Prince Lobanoff-Rostovsky.

VIENNA, August 31.—The following particulars of the death of Prince Lobanoff Rostovsky, Russian minister of foreign affairs, who died suddenly yesterday while on his way from Vienna to Dresden, have been obtained: While Prince Lobanoff was here he several times complained of feeling ill, and while making a visit to Count Nigra, the Italian ambassador, in company with Count Philip Eulenberg, the German ambassador to Austria, he had a fainting fit. After recovering from the fit Prince Lobanoff said that he had suffered for some time with adynie Uterus, and it was his desire to go as soon as possible to Dresden for the purpose of trying the massage treatment. He started without delay, but was overcome while on the imperial special railway train, and died as the train reached Kissatin.

Whitehead Tracked into the Mountains, Where the Trail Was Lost.

SKIBBEREEN, Ireland, August 31.—Albert George Whitehead, the insane Irish-American dynamiter recently released from Portland prison, who the night of August 24 escaped from the home of his relatives here and disappeared, has been tracked into the mountains beyond Bantry, where his trail was lost. The parties which were organized to search for him have given up all hope of finding him and have returned here.

Naval Cadets Deprived of a Course by the Bancroft's Orders.

WASHINGTON, August 31.—In consequence of the "emergency" necessitating the use of practice cruiser Bancroft for other purposes than that for which she was built, the fourth, or lowest, class at the Naval Academy is prevented from having its usual September cruise and will be quartered on the old Santee until the October term begins. The Santee, which is an old hulk not mentioned in the naval register, is permanently moored at the academy and used as a marine barracks.

Escaped Oklahoma Murderer Located.

GUTHRIE, Oklahoma, August 31.—Deputy marshals working in the Osage country claim to have definite information that George Taylor, the escaped murderer of the Meeks family, is located with a band of outlaws in the eastern part of that reservation. A raid is being planned by officers who expect to make a big haul of criminals.

AT GRANT'S TOMB.

Li Hung Chang Visits Riverside Park Yesterday.

New York, August 30.—Li Hung Chang, despite the fact that he attended a dinner given in his honor Saturday night and remained up at least an hour beyond his usual hour for retiring, arose this morning at 6:30 o'clock. He breakfasted at 7:30, after which he retired to his sitting room. At 10 o'clock a delegation of thirty Chinese merchants, representing the Lee family in these parts, called on the ambassador to pay their respects. The delegation, which was headed by the Chinese consul was attired in all the splendor of Oriental dress. The members of the delegation all bowed, almost to the ground, as they entered Li Hung Chang's presence, and the great man returned the salute. The audience lasted more than an hour, and the members of the delegation were smiling when they came out of the room.

Colonel Fred D. Grant, accompanied by his son, Ulysses, and by his brother, Ulysses Grant, of San Diego, Cal., arrived at the Waldorf at 2:30 o'clock. Mrs. Grant, widow of General Grant, who was at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, was driven to Colonel Grant's house, 25 East Sixty-second street, where Li Hung Chang was to visit her after the ceremony at the tomb was over. An immense wreath, which the ambassador was to place on the tomb of the dead general, was first carried down stairs from the viceroy's apartments. This wreath, carefully guarded by a member of Li's suite, was placed in a cab and taken to the tomb.

Precisely at 3 o'clock Li Hung Chang, escorted by General Ruger and Colonel Grant, came down stairs and walked through the corridor of the hotel to the Thirty-third street entrance. There carriages were awaiting the party. Li Hung Chang, Colonel Grant, General Ruger and the official interpreter, took seats in the same carriage. In the second carriage were General Miles, General Horace Porter and Henry W. Cannon, Ulysses, son of Colonel Fred Grant; the latter's brother, Ulysses Grant, and Mr. Drew, were in the third carriage. Then came the Chinese minister and the ex-minister to China, George F. Seward. In the last carriage were four attendants of the ambassador. Li Hung Chang's chair occupied a carriage all to itself.

Li Hung Chang with his party drove up Riverside drive opposite the tomb at 4:15 o'clock. His appearance was a signal for hearty cheering. Li Hung Chang's chair was brought forward, and he took a seat in it and was carried by four policemen a hundred feet or more, the distance from the road to the tomb. He carried an umbrella in one hand and a gold-mounted cane in the other. The members of the suite followed with the other visitors. On reaching the top of the flight of steps, Li alighted. The heavy iron door leading to the tomb was then opened. Li, taking in one hand his floral wreath, entered the crypt and placed it on the iron casket. Before doing so, he made a profound bow. At his side were Colonel Fred Grant, his brother, U. S. Grant; and his son, as well as Lo Fung Lu, the Chinese interpreter. On the steps outside stood General Ruger, General Horace Porter, Colonel J. J. McCook, J. H. Seward and Captain Mills, aide-de-camp to General Ruger. Several members of the Viceroy's suite, including his son, Lord Li, also stood near the entrance.

The occasion seemed to affect Li deeply. In conversation with Colonel Grant, he referred to his warm admiration of the late general's qualities. One of the leading reasons, he added, for returning home by way of America was to visit his friend's grave. Through the interpreter, he made many inquiries about the mausoleum, now building, and towards which he forwarded Hon. John Russell Young a check for $500.

After remaining standing for twenty minutes alongside of the casket, Li uttered several words in Chinese and made a profound bow. Stepping backward to the door, he repeated the same words to himself and made a second bow. Then he withdrew. As he seated himself in the sedan chair the crowd uttered a rousing cheer. This seemed to please him greatly, for he gently nodded his head.

WILL BE ABOVE $10,000,000.

Large Deficit in the Treasury Receipts for August.

Washington, August 30.—The hopes of reducing the deficit for August to any material extent have been abandoned. Monday is the only day remaining for additional receipts, and the deficit for the month Saturday was $11,193,262. The receipts for Monday may exceed $1,000,000, and the expenditures are likely to be small, but in any case the deficit will remain above $10,000,000, and the deficit for the first two months of the fiscal year will stand at $23,000,000. The exact figures Saturday were $24,252,630.

The causes for the large deficit are partly the falling off in receipts and partly some unusual items of expenditures. The receipts up to Saturday were $24,717,057, of which $17,019,578 was from customs, $11,440,185 from internal revenue and $1,251,816 from miscellaneous sources. The receipts for Monday cannot carry this total much above $26,000,000 under the most favorable conditions. This is about $4,000,000 less than the receipts for July, and is less than was promised by the receipts during the first week or ten days of August. The internal revenue receipts, which showed a marked improvement during July, will show a decline of about $1,000,000 for August, while customs receipts will show a small increase.

The expenditures for the month have reached a total of $35,911,000, of which $12,547,000 has been for pensions, $2,250,000 for interest, $12,916,000 for civil and miscellaneous purposes, $4,408,000 for the war department, $2,215,000 for the navy and $1,815,000 for Indians. The expenditures for pensions rarely run much above $12,000,000 per month, but this year they have already reached a total of $25,487,731 in two months.

PRINCE LOBANOFF-ROSTOVSKY.

Death of the Russian Minister of Foreign Affairs.

London, August 31.—A Kieg dispatch says that the Prince Lobanoff-Rostovsky, Russian minister of foreign affairs, who accompanied the czar and czarina in their recently begun foreign tour, died suddenly today while on his way from Vienna to Kieff.

Prince Lobanoff was one of the most prominent personages in Russian politics. He was one of the descendants of Rurik. The name Lobanoff is derived from one of his ancestors, who was surnamed Loban (high forehead), while Rostovsky is derived from the ancient town of Rostov, where the Lobanoffs were long reigning princes. The prince entered the diplomatic service at an early age, and was a special protege of the celebrated Gortchakoff. Before the last Russo-Turkish war he was charge d'affaires at Constantinople, and at the close of hostilities was sent back to the same city with the title of ambassador.

After leaving the shores of the Bosphorus he was for a time attached to the ministry of the interior at St. Petersburg, and subsequently was sent as ambassador to London. For eleven years he was Russian representative at Vienna, where his tact, moderation and wit made him a great favorite alike at court and in society. His splendid palace in the Reisnerstrasse was purchased from the Duke of Warsaw when that nobleman succeeded to the throne of Luxemburg, and here it was his pleasure to surround himself with all the leading notabilities of the scientific, literary and artistic worlds.

THE BARONESS BURDETT-COUTTS.

It might be considered in some sort a set-off, in these days, when so many of America's most beautiful and moneyed daughters should be marrying the titled men of the mother country—that the wealthiest woman in England should elect to lay her immense fortune at the feet of an American! But as Mr. Ashmead-Bartlett, in marrying the Baroness Burdett-Coutts, soon devoted himself to her country as well as to herself, he has passed almost beyond our ken. An exceedingly scholarly and cultivated man, showing great energy and skill in administering the numberless organizations of his wife's benevolence his own ability was speedily recognized, and, as a member of Parliament, he has taken an active interest in political affairs, although on what to most of us is the wrong side.

This fortune, which might have been unwieldy in less wise and charitable hands, came to Angela Georgina Burdett as a young girl from her grandfather, the successful banker, Mr. Coutts, while her talents of heart and mind for administering it she doubtless derived from her father. She has used it all along for "administering" to others. Sir Francis Burdett was ahead of his times in many ways, and may truly be called the father of electoral reform, for which he ardently worked in and out of Parliament during thirty years of his life.

This young girl, with her millions, the head of the second largest banking-house in the world, was soon left fatherless and might easily have become the dupe of the designing; but she had laid her own plans for the use of her fortune, and these were for the help of the unfortunate. Her first act was to buy up some of the worst streets in the East End of London, pull down the wretched buildings, and erect new ones, with libraries, laundries, clubs, and every modern convenience for saving labor. In order to become personally acquainted with the need of such work, she used to visit the very worst parts of London, where many men would fear to enter. On some of these errands she was accompanied by Charles Dickens.

The organization of many charitable societies was due to her insight and readiness to help. Such as the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, in connection with Miss Cobbe; that for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals; a shoeblack brigade, thereby creating employment for boys, together with a certain amount of supervision over them; dinner societies for destitute children, together with numberless places for alleviating distress and poverty. At the time of the Irish famine and consequent suffering, the baroness acted with princely generosity. Besides the help she distributed herself, she placed $1,000,000 in the hands of the government for the use of the starving Irish. For the people on the coast she furnished fishing vessels, and for those who wished to emigrate she put it in their power to do so. When several years afterwards she visited the south coast of Ireland, the people received her with all the warmth and enthusiasm of their nature. Crowds assembled and used every device they could think of to show their gratitude.

During the cholera epidemic of 1867 she employed eight trained nurses, two sanitary inspectors, and four disinfectant agents, to work under a doctor in the East End.

The Whitelands Training College was started by the baroness. The missionary bishoprics of Adelaide, British Columbia, and Cape Town were endowed by her with $250,000 each. While the individual cases of her help are indeed numberless, General Gordon, another embodiment of Christian charity, visited her on leaving for Khartoum, and carried about with him a pocket-book, as a keepsake, till his death.

Besides her acts of philanthropy, Lady Burdett-Coutts is a great lover of art for art's sake, and has ever been its munificent patron. Her own home is a perfect museum, filled with priceless gems of art, curios, collections of rare china and souvenirs of her own personal friends from the world over. Her character is well indexed by her gentle face and the ease and kindness of her manner. In fact she has for more than fifty years lived out the resolve of the poet who says:

"I live for the cause that needs assistance
And the good that I can do."

—[Boston Transcript.

THE VICE PRESIDENCY.

It will be a matter of much importance to the nation that the next Vice President should stand for some settled policy. It is an unhealthy thing to have the Vice President and President represented by principles so far apart that the succession of one to the place of the other means a change as radical as any possible party overturn. The straining and dislocation of our governmental institutions was very great when Tyler succeeded Harrison and Johnson succeeded Lincoln. In each case the majority of the party that had won the victory felt that it had been treated with scandalous treachery, for Tyler grew to be as repulsive to the Whigs as Polk himself, and the Republicans could scarcely have hated Seymour more than they hated Johnson.

The Vice President has a three-fold relation. First to the administration; next as presiding officer in the Senate, where he should be a man of dignity and force; and third in his social position, for socially he ranks second to the President alone. Mr. Morton was in every way an admirable Vice President under General Harrison, and had he succeeded to the Presidential chair there would have been no break in the great policies which were being pushed forward by the administration. But during Mr. Cleveland's two incumbencies Messrs. Hendricks and Stevenson have represented, not merely hostile factions, but principles and interests from which he was sundered by a gulf quite as great as that which divided him from his normal party foes.

Mr. Sewall would make a colorless Vice President, and were he at any time to succeed Mr. Bryan in the White House would travel Mr. Bryan's path only with extreme reluctance and under duress. Mr. Watson would be a more startling, more attractive, and more dangerous figure, for if he got the chance he would lash the nation with a whip of scorpions, while Bryan would be content with the torture of ordinary thongs.—Theodore Roosevelt, in September Review of Reviews.

THE GOLF PLAYERS.

Beginning of the Annual Tournament at the Country Club.

Tennis and the horse show having been successfully finished and generously attended during the first five days of the week, society Saturday turned its horses' heads and its bicycle wheels towards the grounds of the Newport Golf Club, where for the next few days interest will centre. The special attraction Saturday was the first of the home-and-home matches between the teams of the Baltusrol and Newport golf clubs. The local links were in splendid condition, thanks to the care they have received from Superintendent Davis and his assistants. Nature continued the bright smile she had vouchsafed to tennis and the horse show, and the attendance being very large, and of course exclusively fashionable, the scene presented was lively and picturesque. To add to the enjoyment, the home team won, and won handsomely. The visitors played a good game, and J. A. Tyng covered himself with glory by halving with A. M. Coats, one of the best players in the Newport club, but that was the nearest they came to scoring. Fred C. Havemeyer, the youngest son of the president of the club, and a mere lad, also distinguished himself, for he broke the record for the links, making the two rounds of eighteen holes in eighty-five strokes. This has been beaten in practice, but was never before equalled in a competition. With such a record it was little wonder that young Havemeyer was able to lead his side and win out by ten holes. The match was eighteen holes, match play, and the score follows:

BALTUSROL.	Holes up		NEWPORT.	Holes up
H. P. Toler,	0	vs.	W. Rutherfurd,	5
J. A. Tyng,	0	vs.	A. M. Coats,	0
L. P. Bayard, Jr.,	0	vs.	L. Waterbury,	3
B. Hardwicke,	0	vs.	V. Sorchan,	7
J. Powers Farr,	0	vs.	J. A. Stillman,	6
B. Fellows Morgan,	0	vs.	F. C. Havemeyer,	10
Total	0			31

The return match will be played on the Baltusrol grounds in New Jersey, in November.

The fifth weekly handicap, eighteen holes, medal play, for the Havemeyer cup, was played, and Foxhall Keene won by one stroke. The scores handed in were as follows:

	Gross	Handicap	Net
Foxhall Keene	95	9	86
R. Terry, Jr.	93	6	87
A. Sydney Carpenter	100	12	88
H. B. Tyler	125	30	95
H. O. Havemeyer, Jr.	104	4	100
P. B. Duryea	115	12	103
H. C. De Rham	123	18	105

Twenty-seven other players participated in the match but did not submit their scores, as none were equal to that of Mr. Keene.

Beginning today and continuing through Thursday, the Golf Club grounds will be the centre of attraction because of the annual tournament. This year it is not for the championship, but as it is open to players from other clubs, and as these clubs will be quite generally represented, the interest will be only second to that of last year, when the championships for amateurs and professionals were decided here. Play opened this morning at 10 o'clock, with the amateur open handicap, eighteen holes, medal play, handicap limited to twelve strokes. The first prize is a silver cup, and the second a silver flask.

For this forty-three players, representing eleven clubs, have entered. They are Richard Peters, Roderick Terry, Jr., H. R. Winthrop, Jr., H. O. Havemeyer, Jr., F. C. Havemeyer, F. O. Beach, A. M. Coats, Victor Sorchan, B. S. De Garmendia, R. P. Huntington, W. A. Burden, Jasper Lynch, A. Sydney Carpenter, Leslie Cotton, James A. Stillman, Reginald Brooks and Winthrop Rutherfurd of the Newport club; B. Ward, Jr., James A. Tyng, H. P. Toler, H. Powers Farr and Louis Bayard, Jr., of Baltusrol; Holbrook Curtis, W. R. Betts, T. M. Robertson, L. C. Murdock, G. C. Clarke, Jr., W. L. Lord and N. H. Lord of Shinnecock Hills; H. G. Trevor of St. Andrews; A. L. Norris, Fred J. Pearsall, J. L. Talmage, Jr., and Wyllys Terry of Dykes Meadow; James L. Breeze of Tuxedo; Abram Barker, W. L. Mauran and George M. Smith of the Agawam Hunt Club; George Fox Tiffany of Westchester; H. Mortimer Billings and Rev. Dr. Terry of Ardsley Casino; Herbert Harriman of Knotland, and Q. A. Shaw of Myopia.

Tuesday and Wednesday morning and afternoon the amateur foursome competition will be played, each team to be composed of two players of the same club. The course is eighteen holes, match play, and the prizes are, for first, silver cups, and for second, silver cigarette cases. Fifteen teams, representing seven clubs, have entered for this, as follows:

Agawam Hunt Club—George Smith and William Gammell, Abram Barker and W. L. Mauran.

Newport Golf Club—F. C. Havemeyer and H. O. Havemeyer, Jr., Victor Sorchan and F. O. Beach, J. A. Stillman and Reginald Brooks, Winthrop Rutherfurd and A. M. Coats.

New Haven Golf Club—Roderick Terry, Jr., and H. R. Winthrop, Jr.

Lakewood Golf Club—Jasper Lynch and Beverly Ward, Jr.

Shinnecock Golf Club—Holbrook Curtis and partner, H. G. Trevor and T. M. Robertson, W. R. Betts and G. C. Clarke.

Tuxedo Golf Club—James L. Breeze and Grenville Kane.

Baltusrol Golf Club—James A. Tyng and H. P. Toler, H. Powers Farr and Louis Bayard, Jr.

Myopia Golf Club—Q. A. Shaw and Morton Henry.

The amateurs having had their days, the professionals will meet Thursday morning and afternoon, for prizes of $100, $50, $30 and $20, thirty-six holes, medal play. It is expected that a large number of the leading professionals in this section and near New York will participate in this contest, including Rawlins, last year's champion, who was this year a close second for the championship. The entries for this close Tuesday, but already the following have been received: R. B. Wilson, John W. Shippen and Oscar Bunn of the Shinnecock Hills Club; W. H. Way of Meadowbrook, George Douglass of the Country Club of Brookline, J. Lloyd of the Essex Country Club, W. A. Andrews of Watch Hill, John Holland of Weston, Willie Campbell of Myopia and W. F. Davis, W. A. Donovan and John Keenan of Newport.

THE HORSE SHOW CLAMBAKE.

Saturday to celebrate the very successful manner in which the first open air horse show had been carried out, the executive committee gave a clambake at the house of the Clambake Club to the exhibitors and others who had helped make the show a success. As on the three days of the show bright skies and pleasant weather helped make the clambake a success, though, judging of the compliments paid to the chef, it is a question if anything in the weather line could have affected that bake. There were present Messrs. Prescott Lawrence, F. M. Ware, H. F. Eldridge, L. C. Altemus, R. W. Rives and others of the horse show, Mr. S. M. Taylor of the Rider and Driver, and a number of exhibitors, riders and newspaper men. Some had never attended a clambake before, others had never attended one that was so perfect in every way. The consumption of food per capita was simply enormous, and the clambake was voted even more of a success than the horse show. Messrs. Ware, Lawrence and Eldridge showed that they could manage a bake as well as a show, and those who failed to attend are all sorry since hearing from those who did.

THE THIRTY-FOOTERS' RACE.

Saturday afternoon, in a fair southwest breeze, the thirty-footers raced over the Dyer's island course for the cup offered by Mr. Bayard Thayer of the Asahi. As the donor's boat had won the cup when first raced for, and he wanted some other boat to have it, the Asahi was not started. Captain Watson, her skipper, sailed Mr. Stillman's Wa Wa and again landed his boat first across the line by 58 seconds, so the cup becomes the property of Mr. Stillman. The Puck, sailed by Mr. E. D. Morgan, ran aground and was put out of the race. The start was at 3 o'clock and the summary follows:

	Finish.	Time.
Wa Wa	5:27:42	2:27:42
Dorothy II	5:28:40	2:28:40
Musme	5:29:40	2:29:40
Vaquero III	5:31:50	2:31:50
Esperanza	5:32:27	5:32:27

THE BANCROFT'S TRIP TO EUROPE.

The following assignment of officers of the Bancroft, which has been ordered to Constantinople, was made Saturday: Lieutenant Commander Charles Belknap, now at the Naval Academy, in command; Lieutenant T. E. D. W. Veeder, executive officer, who is relieved from the bureau of equipment; Lieutenant H. B. Wilson, relieved from the Michigan; Ensign E. W. Kittelle, relieved from the Vermont; Assistant Paymaster R. Hatton, relieved from the Katahdin; Passed Assistant Surgeon E. M. Shipps, now with the vessel. There are yet to be detailed a navigating officer and two more watch officers. The new commander of the Bancroft had been originally selected to command the small gunboat Pinta, at Sitka, Alaska, but was selected for his present duty instead because of the difficulty of securing another officer within the same length of time. He was executive officer at the Torpedo Station before his attachment to the Naval Academy.

It is understood that the Bancroft is to have a consort on her voyage across the ocean, for which purpose a cruiser will be detached from Admiral Bunce's fleet next week and assigned to the European squadron. She will go first to Genoa and there await orders from Admiral Selfridge, to whose fleet she will be assigned before proceeding into Turkish waters. Her subsequent movements will be governed by advices received from Minister Terrell. En route to Europe the Bancroft will stop at Fayal for coal.

The circumstances which led to the decision of the naval authorities to fit the Bancroft for duty in Turkish waters are these: Minister Terrell in recent reports has represented that the situation in the Ottoman Empire is serious; that there is grave danger of further riots during the coming autumn; that American missionaries are constantly applying for additional protection; that he is experiencing difficulty in securing compliance with the demands of the United States of reparations for past outrages, and, finally, he expresses the belief that the mere presence of an American warship in the Golden Horn in close touch with the legation at Constantinople will be a practical guarantee against further outrages on American citizens in case of further uprising.

WHICH?

Life is long
And a wee bit dreary;
Death comes quick
On shadowy wing.
Why trouble to smile
When the way is weary?
Why should the sad heart
Laugh and sing?

Life is short,
And glad above measure;
Death comes at last
With kindly glance.
The daily task
Is a daily treasure;
The nightly rest
Is a day's advance.

Choose ye, then,
While choice is before you,
The gloom and grief
Of the aimless way;
Or with the blue sky
Bending o'er you,
Smile and toil
For the brighter day.

FANCIES.

She—You're all my fancy painted, Jack;
Yet understand I never can
Why you, of all my lovers, lack
The grace to flirt a lady's fan.

He—"Tis true, and pity 'tis 'tis true,"
The dreadful fact which you assert;
But since I cannot flirt a fan,
Permit me, love, to fan a flirt.

The worm the early bird catches is nothing compared with what the late "bird" catches when he gets home.—[Boston Transcript.

A certain minister while preaching said that every blade of grass was a sermon. The next day he was amusing himself by mowing his lawn, when a parishioner said: "That's right, doctor; cut your sermons short."—[Harper's Bazar.

"No, Fred, I cannot be yours."
"Won't you tell me why?"
"I am a member of the Woman's Emancipation Club. But I'll tell you what—you can be mine if you wish to!"—[Fliegende Blätter.

"Gobang treated me mean, but I got even with him all right."
"What did you do?"
"I started the report that he had inherited a fortune, and had bill collectors calling on him by the score."—[Truth.

Mary—Teacher, may I be excused from school this afternoon? We are going to have company.
Teacher—I don't believe that comes under any of the rules granting leave of absence.
Mary (after a moment's reflection)—Please, teacher, I think it might be placed under "domestic affliction."—[Washington Times.

"I see you are busy," said the casual visitor. "I'll call again."
"No, I'm not busy; I'm only worried," was the reply.
"Anything I can give you advice about?"
"I don't know. An acquaintance of mine has just organized a new company, and he says he'll let me in on the ground floor."
"That's good."
"I don't know whether it is or not. The trouble is that when a man lets you in on the ground floor you never know whether his next move will be to put up the structure or dig a sub-cellar."—[Washington Star.

PERSONALS.

....Archbishop Machray, primate of Canada, who has just returned to the Dominion, is the tallest bishop in the world.

....The Queen of Servia, it is said, eschews the soft bed and avoids the down pillows as she would the plague. She sleeps on a narrow divan spread with a hard, unyielding mattress, and without the vestige of a pillow.

....Ernest Crofts, who has been recently promoted to the full honors of the British Royal Academy, although still a comparatively young man, has had to wait long for his well-earned distinction. He is fifty years old and has been painting for thirty years.

....Russell L. Dunn, mining engineer, of California, has been engaged by a syndicate of Paris bankers to examine the placer districts on the Amoor river, Siberia. He will sail from New York for Paris at an early date, and will proceed, via Moscow and Irkutsk, to his destination, a point in Siberia two thousands miles from the Pacific ocean.

....The czar and czarina left Vienna Saturday, en route to Kieff, where they will remain until September 3, when they will go to Breslau, arriving there September 5. According to the Berlin Tageblatt, the czar has expressed a wish to have an interview with Prince Bismarck, and it is possible that His Majesty may arrange to visit Friedrichsruh on his way to Kiel.

....In 1879 Lady Li, wife of Li Hung Chang, at present our nation's guest, was dangerously ill. The treatment required was such as could not with Chinese ideas of propriety be performed by one of the opposite sex. So Dr. Leonora Howard, a missionary of the woman's society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, was called to take charge of the case, and she was carried with all possible haste to Tien Tsin by the prime minister's own boat. For a month she resided in the palace as physician and guest, no restriction being placed upon her Christian work. When she returned to Pekin the cure was complete, and Dr. Howard was Lady Li's acknowledged friend. The gratitude of herself and her husband was evinced in generous contributions to free dispensaries and hospital wards for women. Later Dr. Howard attended Li's aged mother, who died and left $1,600 to Dr. Howard's work. This was the first bequest of a Chinese woman to Christian benevolence. Said the earl recently: "If Christianity ever prevails in China, your doctors, more especially your woman doctors, must open the hearts of the people."

The first edition of the Daily News is printed in season for the early afternoon train and for delivery in Middletown and Portsmouth.

The Second Edition contains the latest telegraphic and local news, and is delivered by office carriers throughout the entire city.

The Newport Journal contains the best matter in the Daily News each week, and will be sent to any address in the United States, postage paid, for $2 a year in advance.

ADVERTISING RATES.

Advertisements, without special position, $1 a square for the first insertion and 25 cents for each continuance. Ten lines, or less, nonpariel type for five stathe of an inch) make a square. Advertisements of five lines or less are taken at about one-half of these rates. A discount is allowed on all advertisements ordered in the Daily for more than one week, or when both papers are used.

Yearly or Term Advertisers are limited to their immediate business, are guaranteed but five insertions in a week, and are allowed twenty-five changes a year. Electrotypes will be used without extra charge if solid metal; "wood backs" cannot be used with safety to the press.

Advertisers using both the daily and weekly papers receive a discount on the combined rates and gain the advantage of distinct classes of readers, no person reading both the daily and weekly. The Journal goes among people who read no other local paper.

PRINTING.

The News has six steam presses and has a large and well-appointed job printing office. All orders for work in this department will be promptly filled and at reasonable prices.

Newport Daily News

MONDAY, AUGUST 31, 1896.

Subscribers who fail to receive their papers regularly and in good condition should immediately make complaint to the office of publication. Carriers are forbidden to roll or twist papers and throw them upon premises, but are instructed to deposit them in fair condition, according to the wishes of subscribers. Carriers are also forbidden to have other boys with them on the routes, without permission from the office, and are not allowed to sell papers.

ANOTHER NATIONAL TICKET.

The old-line Democrats will hold their national convention at Indianapolis tomorrow. The delegates chosen represent nearly all the states, and among them are found many of the most prominent men in the party, whose names are known to the people of every section. These are strict party men who refuse to ratify the terms of surrender to the Populists, through which old-time principles were bartered away. And so they meet to re-affirm the platform of Jefferson, Jackson and Cleveland, and be able to hand down the organization to a future generation.

Just who their candidates for President and Vice President may be it is impossible to determine in advance. For the first place on the ticket, Henry Watterson of Kentucky and Senator Vilas of Wisconsin appear to be the most prominent names under discussion. But other men equally well fitted for leadership are under consideration, and on some of these the mantle may fall.

For Vice President, public opinion appears to centre upon General Buckner. With Vilas for first place and Buckner for second, the spectacle would be presented of two generals who fought against each other in the war now acting in concert. They were both good soldiers and are both orators and statesmen, with as much brilliancy and dash in politics as in war. Buckner was the commander who surrendered to General Grant at Donelson, and it will be remembered that the two soldiers were life-long friends ever afterward. Buckner is popular in the North as well as in the South. Vilas has a national reputation, untarnished at any point, and is an effective platform speaker. Mr. Watterson would be equally strong in the West and South, though less known in other parts of the country.

AT THE WAR COLLEGE.

Though the United States Naval War College is located in Newport harbor, its affairs are so conducted that our people know very little of the work done within its walls. This is doubtless as it should be, for that work is largely technical and of a character which does not belong to the public, and especially to the world at large. Mr. William E. Curtis, correspondent of the Chicago Record, writes as though having more or less of an inside view of the institution, and without revealing any secrets which could possibly be of advantage to "our friends the enemy," makes the account of his visit so interesting that we quote freely.

Mr. Curtis begins by saying that among other things which the officers on Coasters' Harbor Island are engaged in is playing "games of war" as part of their naval education. These games, we are told, were invented by Von Moltke of Germany, and have for some time been in use in the military schools of that empire, to great advantage in the training of prospective commanders, and that they were introduced here by Admiral Luce, adapted to naval practice, and made a part of the course of study. "The character and progress of the play is kept a secret, for military reasons and to prevent misunderstandings, for sometimes the fleets of the United States are engaged with those of England, and again those of Spain; sometimes they win and sometimes they lose; and it would not be proper to let the public know how either happened. For an example, the United States fleet may be engaged some day in protecting the north Atlantic coast from an attack from the fleet of Zanzibar. Certain officers represent the new sultan of that enterprising country, and direct the movements of the cruisers and battleships and torpedo boats just as if they meant business. Certain other officers represent the admiral of our navy, and direct the defense, while Captain Taylor, the president, and the rest of the faculty of the War College are umpires.

"It is assumed that when a cruiser or a battleship is caught by a vessel of greater tonnage and heavier guns she is whipped, and off she comes from the map that represents the seat of war. The speed of a vessel is also taken into consideration, and if the umpires think she has a chance to run away they let her go, and she seeks a harbor of refuge and is there laid up for such a time as is deemed necessary or sufficient for repairs. The geographical location, the depth of water, the protection of land fortifications, the convenience of coal, and such other circumstances as enter into modern warfare are all taken into consideration, for when a commander takes his ship into a harbor that is unprotected or has not a sufficient depth of water for his draught, the umpires take him off the board as they would a pawn that had been overtaken by a queen in a game of chess. In fact, the war games are very much like chess, and are played in a similar manner, except that the men are ships of different strength and the board is a map of the world. * * * Competent judges say that they have done more to bring the officers of the navy to a knowledge of the serious and important side of their profession than anything that has happened since the civil war, and the games, which were ridiculed when Admiral Luce first proposed them, are now becoming recognized as essential to the proper education of the commanders of ships." Mr. Curtis then goes on to say:

"There is no other institution of the kind in the world. As I have already said, the special scope of study is an adaptation of a system of army education in Germany, but no other country affords its naval officers similar privileges. Several of the European countries have made an investigation of the Newport college, and France is likely to adopt its methods soon. It is also proposed to establish a similar school for the training of the officers of our army in connection with the military college at Leavenworth. The aim of the institution is the practical solution of the problems of war. An officer can learn how to handle a single ship by actual experience on board, but its training is directed to the handling of fleets. It is also important as an experiment station for the test of designs and projects that are devised by officers of the navy to improve the condition of the service. Many valuable suggestions have come from the inventive genius of our officers, and while few of them have been adopted they have received such careful and serious consideration at the War College as to convince the thinking men of the navy that their efforts are appreciated."

BOOKER T. WASHINGTON.

Among the many distinguished persons who will come to Newport this summer, not the least notable will be Booker T. Washington. Born of slave parentage, in a little log hut, less than forty years ago, today he is an educated, cultured, refined Christian gentleman and scholar, ranking high among the leaders of his race. Surely no achievement of a lifetime could be greater than this.

Those who saw and heard Mr. Washington yesterday at the Channing Church could not fail to be impressed alike by the man and his message. The speaker was simple, straightforward and sincere; his subject, singularly suggestive and stimulating. Fluent and graceful in speech to a marked degree, eloquent with the earnestness of enthusiasm, exhibiting by turns the deep pathos and the lively humor of his people, Mr. Washington was an orator to stir and inspire an audience on almost any topic. But when, filled with the theme which has filled his life, he sketched the simple story of his birth and education, and outlined his work for others of his race; when he spoke of their wrongs and sufferings under bondage, of their aspirations and strivings toward a higher civilization, of the tremendous obstacles which surround them, of past labors, present plans and future prospects for their uplifting, his words became of absorbing, even thrilling, interest. As one looked and listened, he beheld first of all the marvel of the man: and then, in a series of pictures, saw the utter enormity of the sin of slavery, the hardly less terrible iniquities which followed emancipation, the mistakes and failures of the effort to raise the negro to a higher plane of citizenship and civilization, and finally the solution of the problem in the colored man himself, working out his own moral, intellectual and industrial salvation.

Surely no self-respecting white man in the pew yesterday would dare to place himself in his thought above the black man on the platform. Indeed, many there were who confessed their inferiority; nor were they humiliated thereby, but rather gloried in the fact that the time has come when it is no longer a disgrace—if indeed it ever was that—but instead is an honor, to belong to the negro race, as represented by a Booker Washington.

FOR SHAME!

It is pointed out that the "American merchant marine association," of which Arthur Sewall of Maine is president, is sending out circular letters to Republican stump speakers, requesting them to emphasize particularly the demand in favor of restoring the ancient law imposing discriminating duties on goods brought into the country in foreign ships. It was this law which more than anything else turned over the carrying trade to England and other foreigners, and its re-adoption would strike a death blow to our reviving commerce. Even Mr Sewall with his "association" could not build ships enough in the next ten years to carry these goods. But the law would make big business for the Vice Presidential candidate as a shipbuilder and give him big prices for freights in the fifteen or sixteen ships which he has already afloat. If that is all Mr. Sewall is after, and it looks like it, we should prefer Watson. Nothing could be more shameful than for a candidate for high office to be sending out appeals for personal favors of this character.

The Melrose, Mass., Mutual Fire Insurance Company has gone into the hands of a receiver, and that official is asking authority from the court to make an assessment of $15,000 with which to pay outstanding obligations. This is not the kind of a dividend which the holders of policies bargained for, but there is no help for it. The New England Mutual Fire, one of the new companies which has been writing at inadequate rates, has voted an assessment of $10,000, with which to pay losses and expenses.

The managers of Hilton, Hughes & Co. think that intelligence toward creditors was partly responsible for their failure. They had wealthy patrons, who had large accounts unpaid for years. As a result, the firm had to carry their largest accounts for a year sometimes, when the money was needed. This habit of slow payment on the part of wealthy or even well-to-do people is not only an embarrassment to tradesmen, but is also without excuse.

Candidate Watson says that Bryan's visit East was a great failure. He evidently thinks that instead of conquering about in Sewall's neighborhood Mr. Bryan had better come down South, where the only real Democratic candidate for Vice President is to be found.

The Republicans feel that it is important that at least the usual majority should be secured at the state election in Vermont. They will have some Democratic votes, but unfortunately the nomination of General Grout, the candidate for governor, is not a popular one, and the contest has left some bitterness, which may affect all the gains from the Democracy on the gold question.

The representatives of the various European governments have united in a strong protest to the sultan against the continuance of Armenian massacres. The Unmentionable will care very little for that, if it is not backed up with some show of force. The whole civilized world has been protesting these many months, and nothing has come of it.

Li Hung Chang visited the tomb of his old friend, General Grant, and placed a wreath of flowers upon it. A large concourse of people assembled to witness the operation, and in some degree share in the loving tribute to the hero of many battlefields, and one of the greatest of American statesmen.

A CARD FROM REV. MR. JETER.

To the Editor of the Daily News:

Dear Sir: Permit me, in behalf of the eight millions of negroes in this country, to thank Rev. Mr. Cutler, pastor of Channing Memorial Church, and his people, for giving Mr. Booker T. Washington, the ideal representative of my race, the opportunity of presenting from his pulpit yesterday to a large congregation the important work that he is doing at Tuskegee Institute in Alabama; viz., the industrial education of the negro.

The negro as a rule is loyal to this government, and the future hope and success of America depends largely upon the education and elevation of the eight millions of negroes in these United States. Over two hundred and forty years the negroes in this country were slaves, bought and sold as so many cattle. We as a race will be for some time to come dependent upon the white people of America to help us to help ourselves. I desire also to thank those whom the Lord has blessed with great wealth, thus counting them worthy of being kisstewards, for the great interest they have shown toward us as an oppressed race.

Respectfully,

H. N. JETER,
Pastor of Shiloh Baptist Church.

THE NAVAL RESERVES' CAMP.

The Newport and Providence Naval Reserves will go into camp at Potter's Cove, Prudence Island, next Saturday afternoon, to remain until Monday afternoon. The Newport company will row up the river in its boats, aided, it is hoped, by a brisk southerly breeze. Lieutenant Wilks, being the senior officer, will be in command of the camp, and the routine will include drills, dress parade, guard mount and other duties of camp life, and fleet drills with the several boats of the two companies. Monday afternoon the Reserves will be reviewed by Commander W. McCarthy Little, commanding the state battalion. The camp is purely voluntary, and the Reserves are anticipating a great deal of pleasure as well as valuable experience from the brief tour of duty.

JAMESTOWN.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

The second in the series of three races by the Conanicut Yacht Club was sailed Saturday afternoon. The race was well contested; there was a good breeze, and no accidents. Mr. Havemeyer was unfortunate in not locating the turning stake off the Dumplings, and sailed nearly a mile off the course. The winners were the Iris in the first class, the Scudder in the second class, the Vesper in the third class, and the Gnat of the half-raters.

The third and last race will take place this afternoon, and indications point to heavier wind than on either of the former. Thursday there will be a race by catboats, over 22 feet water line, for $100, offered by Mr. Gerry, to be sailed under the direction of the Conanicut Yacht Club.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, August 31, 8 A. M.—For New England—Fair and cooler Tuesday, preceded by local showers in northern and central portions; winds shifting to northwesterly, and light frosts in northern portion Tuesday morning.

FOR BOSTON AND VICINITY.

BOSTON, August 31, 8 A. M.—For Boston and vicinity—Fair tonight and Tuesday; cooler Tuesday; westerly winds.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

An area of low barometer, central this morning over the province of Quebec, is causing unsettled weather in the St. Lawrence valley and the eastern lake region, and was attended last night by light to moderate showers and thunder storms in those localities. The weather in New England is hardly affected by the disturbance, and elsewhere throughout the country the skies are for the most part clear. Little or no rainfall has occurred within the preceding twenty-four hours, except as mentioned above. The temperature has fallen decidedly over the lake region and upper valleys, the fall amounting in some cases to fifteen or twenty degrees. The mercury this morning is in the forties and fifties in the regions named, and during the night it fell to the frost point in northern Minnesota. This cool area will move eastward, probably reaching New England tomorrow, and light frosts are looked for tomorrow morning in the northern states of the district. In the south the morning range of temperature is generally in the seventies, and in New England the extremes are fifty at Eastport, and sixty-four at Boston and Nantucket.

New York, August 31.—Wall Street, Opening Prices—Atchison, 11¾; Chicago Gas, 57½; Louisville & Nashville, 49¼; Manhattan, 80; North American, 4; Northwestern, 95; Reading, 9; Rock Island, 57⅝; St. Paul, 65¾; Sugar, 109¾; Western Union, 79¾; Wheeling & Lake Erie, 12½.

Noon—Money on call, 6 @ 7 per cent; prime mercantile paper, 8 @ 9 per cent; exchange, weak, with rates at $4.81¾ @ $4.82 for sixty days and $4.85¾ @ $4.86 for demand; posted rates, $4.82¾ @ $4.86; commercial bills, $4.81¼ @ 81; silver, 56¾; government bonds, steady; refunded interest, 108¾; 4s, coup., 106; new 4s, reg., 122¾; new 4s, coup., 122¾; railroad bonds, strong. The upward movement in stocks made further progress after 11 o'clock and belated buyers had to pay considerably higher prices. Commission houses reported a little better inquiry for the dividend payers, and local traders were generally attacted on the bull side of the account. Deposits of gold at the sub-treasury up to noon were $2,520,000, which will strengthen the treasury reserve. This it is expected will exert a favorable influence later. The notably strong stocks were the Industrials, the Grangers and the Gould properties. The advance as compared with Saturday's finals was 1 to 2½ per cent, the latter in American Tobacco. Speculation at mid-day was strong, with an approach to buoyancy.

Texas Delegate to Indianapolis Prefers McKinley to a New Ticket.

INDIANAPOLIS, August 31.—W. H. Lassiter of Texas is the first delegate to put in an appearance from a Southern state. He said this morning that unless the convention should endorse the nomination of McKinley, he should bolt it, and asserted that Texas delegates would go with him. When this statement was repeated to members of the executive committee they said Mr. Lassiter was talking wildly, and that the letters received by them from the delegates-at-large gave assurances that the delegation from Texas would vote for and support a sound-money Democratic nominee.

The Northwest sent a delegate in the person of Henry Vollmer, mayor of the city of Davenport, Iowa. Although that city usually gives a Democratic majority, in the opinion of Mr. Vollmer it will this year give McKinley two or three thousand majority. "Iowa will not go for Bryan," said Mayor Vollmer. "Before the Chicago convention there was a great deal of silver sentiment among the Republicans, and the prospect was a very poor one for the party. But since the Chicago deliverance was made there has been a decided reaction, and the Republicans are getting back into the ranks again."

NOW AN ARCHBISHOP.

Consecration of the New Papal Delegate to This Country.

ROME, August 31.—Rev. Sebastian Martinelli, who was recently appointed to succeed Cardinal Satolli as papal delegate to the Roman Catholic Church in the United States, was consecrated a special archbishop yesterday, in the presence of the foreign diplomats accredited to the Vatican. The ceremony of consecration was performed by Cardinal Rampolla, papal secretary of state. Today Archbishop Martinelli was received by the pope. The new papal delegate will start for the United States about the end of September.

THE WRECK OF THE ITLIS.

Driven Hard on a Ledge of Rocks, and Broken in Pieces.

SAN FRANCISCO, August 31.—Steamer Rio Janeiro, which arrived from Yokohama Saturday, brought particulars of the wreck of German gunboat Idlis, off the coast of Shantung, July 23. The Rio was also caught in the storm which sent the Idlis to the bottom, and was obliged to heave to for twenty-two hours. Only eleven of the Idlis's crew reached land in safety, but the exact number lost is unknown. The gunboat was driven hard on a broken ledge of rocks, and went to pieces in a few minutes. The survivors floated ashore on wreckage.

AT CHAUTAUQUA.

Mr. and Mrs Bryan Visit the Assembly Grounds.

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., August 31.—Mr. and Mrs. Bryan left Lakewood at 7:30 o'clock this morning, on the little Chautauqua lake steamer Celeron, accompanied by a number of people from Jamestown. At Bemus Point the boat made a landing long enough to permit the candidate to shake hands with about a hundred persons. A crowd of about the same number greeted him at the Chautauqua landing, when the steamer arrived at 9:15. There were cheers for Bryan, and counter cheers for McKinley. Mr. and Mrs. Bryan were taken in charge by Guy H. Fuller, the postmaster, and driven around the famous assembly grounds. At 10 o'clock the Celeron, with the Bryan party on board, left for Mayville.

MAYVILLE, N. Y., August 31.—Mr. Bryan was accompanied on the steamer from Chautauqua to Ripley by W. A. Duncan, secretary of the Chautauqua assembly, and others prominent in Chautauqua work. Before leaving Chautauqua Mr. Bryan made a little speech.

THE TEXAS COUNTERFEITERS.

Spurious Dollars to be Manufactured by the Million.

WACO, Texas, August 31.—Edward Daniel Ennis, John Mitchell and B. S. Shanner were arraigned before United States Commissioner Fricke Saturday. The two last named men are charged with being confederates of Ennis in a scheme hitherto described to manufacture counterfeit money. Ennis voluntarily took the stand, and under oath made a sweeping confession, stating that as agent of a concern calling itself "the Royal Manufacturing Company" he built a factory for manufacturing spurious dollars, which were to be moulded and milled by steam power by the million. The commissioner placed Ennis's bail at $1,000, and Mitchell's and Shanner's at $200 each. Ennis is a preacher. He says he wants to expiate his sin in prison at hard labor. The three prisoners were placed in jail in default of bail.

THE ARTILLERY'S BICYCLE SQUAD.

The Newport Artillery bicycle squad, under Major Bliss, arrived here yesterday afternoon from Rocky Point on steamer Day Star, covered with glory and dust, and wheeled up Thames street in a style that satisfied every one that the award of first prize which they had received in the big Boston Herald bicycle parade Saturday was fully deserved. The trip through to Boston was eventful, and yet not eventful. There were two minor mishaps near Taunton, which were repaired in that city, and the squad arrived about 5 o'clock at Ponkapoag grove and pond, near Blue Hills, in fine condition. The grove was an ideal place for camp, there being an abundance of pine cones for beds, a shed and tables where supper was cooked, and substantial justice done to it. Dinner had been eaten on the road, near Somerset, the material having been taken from Newport. After pitching camp, eating supper, taking a bath and cleaning up, some of the boys tried to sleep, but the larger number felt too lively to sleep, and had a jolly time cooking and eating provisions.

Breakfast was prepared Saturday morning and eaten with a good supply of milk from a near-by farm, and sandwiches were made for dinner, which was eaten before reaching the South armory in Boston, where the men brushed off the dust and prepared for the parade. This proved to be the most tiresome part of the trip, as the pace was so slow and the crowd reduced the space so much that the wheels scarcely had headway much of the time, and stops were frequent. The practice on the country roads, however, stood them well in stead here, and they made a decidedly good impression. After the parade the squad rode back to Ponkapoag, nine miles, in about half an hour, through the Boston park system and over roads that were as fine as could be asked for. After supper many went to Boston to the theatres, returning for sleep.

Sunday morning, after breakfast, it was found that a number of tires were so punctured that they could not safely be ridden any great distance. The repairer who accompanied the squad failed to return from Boston or to send a repair outfit, as he had promised, and it was decided to go to Providence by rail. Here no repairs could be made. Those with good wheels rode to Crescent Park, intending to continue awheel to Newport, but as the damaged wheels were not repaired this part of the program also had to be abandoned, and Newport was reached by boat.

The men cooked their own food and cooked it well, in the individual camp outfit, slept in shelter tents, and depended only on buying food in the country. The emergency medical outfit, prepared by Surgeon Barker, saved several men from summer complaint, and the entire party returned in as good health and better spirits than when they left. The roads in Massachusetts were fine; the worst roads were found on this island and through Fall River.

The Artillery squad was the only one that rode any great distance to Boston, and the only one that appeared with a full marching kit, ready for service on the road. The Kentish Guards and the Warren Artillery both sent squads from Rhode Island, by rail, and both looked well. The Artillery boys felt quite sure, after seeing the other troops, of whom there were about five hundred in all, of taking the military prize, but were a little afraid of a detachment of colored troops from the Eighth Massachusetts regiment, who made a really fine appearance. The Artillery, however, were given first, and a special prize was added for the colored detachment. The Artillery knew nothing about taking the prize until they read the Boston Herald yesterday.

THE LAST GAMES OF THE LOCAL POLO TOURNAMENT.

The season of big matches on the local polo grounds was closed Saturday with the final match for the special cups offered by the Westchester Polo Club for teams of four whose individual handicaps do not exceed five goals. The contestants were the Meadowbrook Second, which defeated the Myopia Second Tuesday, and a picked team, called the Newports, and Meadowbrook won, 10 to 5½ goals.

Owing to the rival attraction at the Golf Club the attendance inside the field was less than at the previous games. It may have been less also on Dead Head Hill, but looking at that historic gallery from the field there was noticed no signs of diminished numbers, and the picture presented seemed as bright as usual. The play was what was to be expected from second teams, at times dull, slow and uninteresting; at other times as lively and brilliant as one could wish. Everybody on the field did some excellent individual work, the two No. 1 men, C. R. Duval and Stanley Mortimer, especially distinguishing themselves by good riding-off and brilliant runs. The back work of Roby was not as even as heretofore, and he lost several good chances to save, but later played brilliantly. M. R. Duval played an especially fine game for the Meadowbrooks. I. T. Burden, Jr., made his first appearance in a cup match, and seemed to play better than ever before. While all did brilliant work, it was the team play of the Meadowbrooks that gave them the victory, which was popular because the Duvals have been hard workers on the ground this season, and everybody was pleased to see them take the cups.

The sides and handicaps were as follows:

Meadowbrook Second—C. R. Duval, 1; H. K. Vingut, 3; C. A. Stevens, 3; M. R. Duval, 5; total, 12.

Newport—S. Mortimer, 1; R. Brooks, 4; I. T. Burden, Jr., 2; E. W. Roby, 3; total, 11.

W. C. Eustis was the referee and E. L. Winthrop, Jr., the time keeper.

Goals were made as follows:

FIRST PERIOD.

Goal.	Side.	Made by.	Time.
1	Meadowbrook	C. R. Duval	3:00
2	Meadowbrook	M. R. Duval	1:30
3	Meadowbrook	C. R. Duval	6:00
4	Newport	Brooks	6:30
5	Newport	Mortimer	2:00

SECOND PERIOD.

6	Meadowbrook	M. R. Duval	7:30
7	Meadowbrook	C. R. Duval	2:00
8	Newport	Roby	7:00
9	Meadowbrook	C. Stevens	:30
10	Newport	Brooks	2:00

THIRD PERIOD.

11	Meadowbrook	Stevens	7:30
12	Meadowbrook	C. R. Duval	6:01
13	Meadowbrook	Vingut	1:00
14	Newport	Mortimer	2:00
15	Meadowbrook	M. R. Duval	1:30

Total—Meadowbrook, 10 goals by play. Newport, 1 goal by handicap, 5 goals by play, less ¾, safety by Burden; net, 5¼ goals.

The polo world will now change from Newport to Prospect Park, Brooklyn, where the championship matches will take place. This week the prizes offered by the Brooklyn Riding and Driving Club, for teams of four, the handicap of any player not to exceed five goals; that is, for what are called second teams, will be played for. Tomorrow the teams of the Country clubs of Buffalo and Philadelphia will meet; Wednesday, the Meadowbrook Second and the Morris County Country Club will play, and Saturday the winners will play the finals. The week following the play for the J. J. Astor cup, representing the polo championship, with individual cups offered by the association, will begin. September 8, the First Meadowbrook and Myopia teams play; September 9, the First Rockaway and Buffalo teams will meet, and the winners will play the finals September 14.

DON'T TAKE A CHANCE

With your eyes. If SEEING is uncomfortable, whether you wear glasses or not, have your eyes examined by a SPECIALIST; some one you have confidence understands the eye and all the defects it is subject to, you will then have each eye examined separately with SCIENTIFIC TESTS by a person with experience. Don't be tempted to TAKE A CHANCE with your eyes simply because a man has glasses to sell and OFFERS THEM CHEAP. How can any one without knowledge and experience tell you what your eyes require? Are you willing to trust to chance in getting what is right? Don't force YOUR EYES to fit the glasses. Have the GLASSES FITTED to the eyes. I have been successful in fitting ACCURATELY the majority of the spectacle-wearing people of Newport. Ask some of them. THEY ARE MY REFERENCES. Let me try your case; advice costs you nothing.

CHINESE SUPERSTITION.

Lower Classes Throughout the Empire Filled with Anti-Foreign Feeling.

Tokio, Japan, August 23, via San Francisco, August 31.—An extraordinary instance of the readily excited anti-foreign inflammability of the lower orders in China has just occurred at Foo Chow. July 19 a number of foreigners, accompanied by their servants, went on an excursion from that city, and arriving at the temple of the Goddess of Mercy, in the suburbs, entered into conversation with the abbess as to the meaning of some votive bags suspended in the temple. The abbess explained that the bags contained the names of children, who, on being attacked by small pox, were brought to the temple and offered at the altar of the goddess, after which ceremony—supposed to save their lives—the children were taken away, the bags containing names being left in their stead.

While this conversation was going on, a crowd of children collected outside and began crying out: "Foreign devils." The foreigners took no notice, but their servants rebuked the children, telling them that if they did not desist the foreigners would catch them. The children ran off in alarm and reported to their parents that foreigners had come to carry them off. A panic quickly ensued. The alarm was given, and amid the beating of gongs a large number of peasants and rowdies, variously armed, began to assemble for the purpose of attacking the foreigners in the nunnery. Fortunately the elders of the place succeeded in quieting the tumult, and the foreigners reached home without knowledge of the fate they had so barely escaped.

Rumors were then quickly spread that the foreigners, then engaged in building at Ching Yang, wanted a number of children to bury at the foundations of the new houses, the ground being inconveniently soft, and were also about to steal all the bags in the temples to be used as charms. A general stampede of children and families took place, some flying from Foo Chow and others running to it for refuge. Boats arriving at a place fifteen miles down the river were seen to be manned by persons wearing light jackets and Japanese made straw hats. These were mistaken for foreigners, supposed to have come to seize the name bags in the temple, and a rush was made for the temple. The priests, closing the doors in apprehension of a riot, were accused of having been bribed by the foreigners, and in the sequel the temple doors were broken, the priests badly beaten, and all the name bags recovered by the people, who then started en masse for Foo Chow. The missionaries are said to have made no attempt to allay these absurd suspicions.

Everywhere among the lower orders in China the theory seems to prevail that Chinese children are special objects of foreign ferocity. A man recently arrested in Hunan for killing a child confessed under the bamboo torture that he had been hired by a foreigner. Had the magistrate taken him at his word, the missionaries in the neighborhood would probably have been murdered. But a further application of the bamboo induced the man to withdraw his confession.

Dissolution of a Big St. Louis Dry Goods Firm.

St. Louis, August 31.—A morning paper says: Formal announcement will be made today of the intended dissolution of the H. T. Simon-Gregory Dry Goods Company. The concern is the second oldest of its kind in St. Louis. It was stated last night that the directors had agreed as long ago as last spring to dissolve the firm this year, but efforts were made to conceal the existence of this agreement until September 1. The reason for the dissolution, as given, is the desire of Messrs. Simon and Gregory to retire from active commercial pursuits. The company is capitalized at $600,000 and has a surplus of about $100,000. Its business is estimated to aggregate $1,000,000 a month.

SCENES FROM DRUMTOCHTY.

Messrs. Dodd, Meade & Company have just received from Mr. Clifton Johnson the first batch of photographic views of Drumtochty life and character, to be used in the illustrated editions of "Beside the Bonnie Brier Bush" and "The Days of Auld Lang Syne," now in preparation. These have proved to be much more interesting than was even anticipated. Mr. Johnson's work in the edition of White's "Selborne," published by the Messrs. Appleton last Christmas, proved him to be no mean photographer, and in the series of pictures which he is now taking he shows fine eclectic and artistic tastes. To be sure, he has fallen upon a most picturesque subject, but it takes the eye of the artist to arrange and combine the points of view.—[Chronicle and Comment, in The Bookman.

POSSIBILITIES OF THE BICYCLE.

Here we reach the domain of speculation. The bicycle has changed many times in its form, and always for the better; each form has taken on its multitude of improvements, and no part of the modern wheel has escaped the ingenuity of the mechanic in his aim to secure better material, stronger connections, lighter weight, greater speed, grace of design, and comfort to the rider. Every day is a day of new records and of the revealment of new possibilities. Four hundred and odd miles for a single day; thirty miles in an hour; a hundred miles in three hours and forty-seven minutes; a single mile in one minute and—but a statement of the seconds here would be true only for the week in which it was written.

Six years ago one of the best-informed and most progressive of our cycling authorities, Mr. F. F. Prial, editor of "The Wheel," writing of the safety bicycle of that day, mentioned the drawbacks of the pneumatic tire as being "its large size, and the necessity of replenishing the air to keep it properly distended." He advised that the ideal safety should not be geared too high, but only to fifty-four or fifty-seven inches, "except in the case of strong riders." The gearing of the man's wheel of 1896 is from sixty-three inches upward, a gearing of seventy inches being about the average, and eighty not at all uncommon; while the woman's wheel of today, when geared at sixty, is easily propelled by new and inexperienced riders. Saddles, tires, frames, bearings, handle-bars, cranks, spokes, and rims have been lightened, simplified, improved, and from year to year made to displace the cruder product of the year before.

Where is the limit? No man can tell; but so far as it relates to the common pedomotive bicycle of today, the practical limit would seem to be not far distant. A year or two hence will probably witness the introduction of a practical motor bicycle, and the more general adoption of motor carriages in certain parts of the country where the roads have been improved. Meanwhile the bicycle now in common use will hold its way, with such improvements in detail, and perhaps in form, as will add to its usefulness, and to the comfort, convenience, and security of the rider.—Isaac B. Potter, in the September Century.

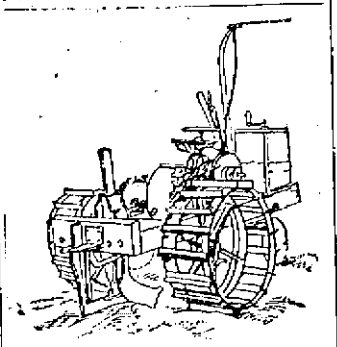

No appetite? Then do not try to force food down; but use the most scientific means for restoring tone to the stomach. How? Why, by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and in a surprisingly short time your appetite will come again, and come to stay.

AN ELECTRIC PLOW.

It Takes Power Through a Flexible Wire and Goes Anywhere.

Many experiments have been made with electric plows. An implement of this class was tried this season on the prairie near Chicago, and is reported to have given satisfaction. It is a simple contrivance, although the illustration makes it appear a complicated machine. The inventor is a Chicagoan.

Four pieces of timber are put together to form a horizontal frame, which is mounted on an axle, and two light, broad driving wheels. Two rollers in front serve as guide wheels and can be steered by a wheel that looks like the brake wheel of a railway car. The electric current comes in through one strand and goes out through the other of a double wire. Enough of this wire to reach across the field is put upon a reel, and it unwinds as the plow goes away from the starting place. When the farthest point has been reached and the machine begins to come back, the reel winds the slack wire all up again automatically. Out on one front corner of the frame is a box having a crank on top. The box contains the "controller," which is really the same sort of thing seen on every trolley car. The object of this contrivance is to regulate the amount of current admitted to the machine, precisely as a valve lets in steam from a boiler to an engine. The amount of current depends on how far around you move that crank.

After the electricity passes through the coiled wire on the reel it goes into what is called the motor back of the driver's seat. There an armature is set in rotation by the current, and the shaft of the armature drives certain gearing and thus compels the two driving wheels to revolve. In this manner the whole machine is forced to go ahead. The plowshare is seen in the rear, but a hand lever out in front enables the driver to alter the depth of the cut without stopping or alighting. On leaving the field he can draw the share up clear of the ground and run his machine around exactly like a common traction engine so long as he has wire enough on the reel. In fact, it could be used to pull a gang plow, or could be anchored and made to run a thrashing machine.

When the Hogeland device was tested last month, it cut furrows as clean, straight and deep as any two horse plow. The front wheels have flanges, which prevent slipping sideways or wabbling. And the thing is easily steered. Current was obtained in this experiment from a trolley line.—[New York Tribune.

SENATOR LODGE'S SPEECHES.

Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge is making a series of remarkably able financial speeches. As the man who is mainly responsible for the declaration in the St. Louis platform in favor of a gold standard, Senator Lodge evidently feels it incumbent upon him to show cause for the faith that is in him, and to do this not by mere clap-trap oratory, but by a clear presentation of facts. No one would think of accusing Senator Lodge of a disposition to have the United States tamely and unnecessarily accept the dictation of England in financial matters. In fact, if there were the shadow of a truth in the pretended control of Lombard street, Senator Lodge would be one of the quickest to cry out for national financial independence. But he realizes that there are certain things in which the United States cannot be independent; that as we are a part of the world we must accept the world's methods. Because two and two make four in England, France and Germany, we cannot make it five in the United States by any decree of legislation. As he said in his speech in Portland on Wednesday: "It is the silver countries of South America who are in the hands of the money lenders ten thousand times more than any nation of high credit." "The higher the credit of the United States the greater its independence." "The man whose credit is bad has to borrow money where he can get it on the terms which his creditors choose to impose." And this is as true of a nation as it is of a man.—[Boston Herald.

HAWAIIAN TRADE.

Statistics Showing Its Diversion from San Francisco to New York.

WASHINGTON, August 31.—Consul General Mills, at Honolulu, supplementing a former report calling attention to the diversion of Hawaiian trade from San Francisco to New York, writes to the department that during the six months ending June 30 the total exports from Honolulu to the United States were valued at $8,748,526.40, against $4,429,916.27 for the corresponding period last year, an increase of more than $4,000,000. Of this total, $8,512,781 01 represents the value of sugar sent to America, $2,457,532 of it going around the Horn to New York, except a small cargo which went to Boston. Already during the present calendar year the direct shipments to New York have amounted to $3,040,868.49.

Killed by an Explosion of Natural Gas.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., August 31.—Robert Hanna, an employe of the Lafayette Natural Gas Company, was killed at Michigan Town yesterday, and Thomas Wishart, superintendent of the line, and Joseph Cully, were badly hurt. There was a leak in the main line pipe, and the men had gone out to repair it. A defect in the pipe caused it to give way, and the gas, escaping at a one hundred-pound pressure, blew Cully and Hanna out of the trench. The concussion killed the latter instantly.

Declines a Gold-Democrat Nomination.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., August 31.—Chief Justice Theodore Brace of the state supreme court has announced his fealty to the Democratic party and declined the nomination of the gold Democrats. "Why I was nominated by that convention," he said, "I do not know. I was nominated for state supreme judge by the regular Democratic convention, which met at Jefferson City August 5. I stand upon the platform adopted by that convention, and shall do whatever I can consistent with my judicial position to uphold it in both the state and the nation."

Kieff Preparing to Welcome the Czar and Czarina.

KIEFF, August 31.—All the public and many of the private buildings in Kieff have been profusely decorated in anticipation of the visit of the czar and czarina, who it is expected will remain here from August 31 to September 3. Crowds of people from the surrounding country are flocking into the city and the hotels are already crowded to their fullest capacity.

Attempt to Wreck a Train Carrying Mexican Officials.

ARACALA, Mexico, August 31.—A few nights ago five men attempted to wreck the train on board of which was General M. P. Martinez, governor of this state, a cabinet officer and other distinguished officers. All five miscreants were captured, and have been tried here and sentenced to death. It is expected that the death sentences will be carried out today.

Fatal Fall From a Balloon.

DENVER, Col., August 31.—Sergeant Ivy Baldwin, attached to the signal service of the Department of Colorado, fell from his balloon while making an ascent yesterday, and will probably die of his injuries.

RACES AT THE RHODE ISLAND STATE FAIR.

It is now an assured fact that some of the fastest trotters and pacers in the country will be at Narragansett Park during State Fair week. The entries already received are the pick of the crack stables of the country.

A few notable entries from which great things are expected are Baron Crisp, a newcomer, an entry in the 2:20 class with a record of 2:12¾; Directum Kelly, a two-year-old, which July 1 made a very rapid mile for so early in the season, 2:14¾; Nutbreaker, Jr., enter by Hubinger of New Haven, owner of the fast pacer Frank Agan, coming along in handsome form, and at the present writing with a record of 2:14¼. Heir at Law, in the same class, who has scored in 2:12.

NAVAL NOTES.

Lieutenant Commander S. F. Tilley, Lieutenants York Noel and G. R. Clark and Assistant Engineer H. O. Stickney have been detached from the Bancroft and ordered to the Naval Academy.

Lieutenant Commander F. M. Symonds has been detached from the navy yard at Mare Island, Cal., and ordered to command the Pinta.

Lieutenant F. F. Fletcher has been detached from the Maine and granted three months' leave; Lieutenant J. M. Boyer, from the Raleigh and ordered to the Maine, and Ensign W. C. Cole, from the branch hydrographic office, in Cleveland, and ordered to the Raleigh.

Lieutenant A. F. Fechteler is detached from the branch hydrographic office, in San Francisco, and ordered to the Monterey; Lieutenant David Peacock, from the Monterey and ordered to the Pinta, and Lieutenant G. T. Emmons from the Pinta and granted three months' leave.

The double turreted monitor Amphitrite, of the North Atlantic station, will put into the Brooklyn navy yard in a few days to be fitted with new boiler tubes.

Phillip Kearney, a naval cadet on the Monongahela, from Missouri, has been dismissed from the Naval Academy. While in Annapolis he formed the acquaintance of a young girl who resided beyond the city limits and was married. It is charged that the young man represented himself to be twenty years old, while the records at the Academy show he is seventeen. The first intimation of his downfall was received when the young man reached the Academy on the Monongahela.

PRICES PAID TO AUTHORS.

Our attention has been called to an article on "Prices Paid to Authors," which was published a short time ago in the New York Sun, and in which the writer says of Mrs. Humphry Ward's Sir George Tressady, now running in the Century Magazine, for the serial rights of which eighteen thousand dollars is said to have been paid, that "large as the sum may seem at first thought, it is relatively small; it is much smaller than the other sums paid for the product of other literary workers. Thus Scott got forty thousand dollars for Woodstock, and Moore got three thousand guineas for Lalla Rookh; Anthony Trollope received in all three hundred and fifty thousand dollars for his various works." Forty thousand dollars is more than eighteen thousand dollars, to be sure, but eighteen thousand dollars is not all that Mrs. Ward will receive. For her serial and book rights she will probably be paid never sixty thousand than forty thousand dollars. It has been estimated that for the three novels, Robert Elsmere, David Grieve, and Marcella, she has been paid over two hundred thousand dollars. Anthony Trollope, according to this writer, received three hundred and fifty thousand dollars for his works. There are few more prolific writers than Anthony Trollope. Harper's catalogue gives seventeen books bearing his name as author, and to have been paid three hundred and fifty thousand dollars for seventeen books is not so great an achievement as to have been paid over two hundred thousand dollars for three books. —[Chronicle and Comment, in The Bookman.

A dose of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral taken in time has prevented many a fit of sickness and saved numerous lives. This proves the necessity of keeping this compound medicine where it can be readily reached at all hours of the day and night.

MODERN FASHIONS.

A SHORT SINGLE CAPE WITH FLARING COLLAR.

The prevailing mode in capes is the rather short single cape with flaring collar. This shape is chosen both for cloth, and for satin or silk garments. The former are perfectly plain, with machine stitching around the edges, or are strapped in various ways with the same goods. Some have two or three straps down the back; others have cloth set on to form points.

Satin capes of black are fancifully trimmed with ruffles of black chiffon and white, cream or ecru lace. One had a flounce of chiffon half its length, gathered into the neck. On this was a ruffle of white lace two inches narrower, and over this again a ruffle of chiffon, two inches narrower than the lace. A ruche of chiffon finished the neck.

Capes of gay Dresden silk are stylishly trimmed with black chiffon or lace. Jet on net or tulle is much used, in the shapes of yokes and collars. Heavy white lace collars are stylish edged with ruffles of black chiffon on a black silk or satin cape. When made of cloth the cape is seamless, but narrow fabrics have a seam down the centre back.

PUBLIC LAWS.

CHAPTER 354.

AN ACT In Amendment of Chapter 187 of the General Laws, Entitled "Of Weights and Measures."

(Passed May 15, 1896.)

It is enacted by the General Assembly as follows:

SECTION 1. Section 14 of Chapter 187 of the General Laws, entitled "Of weights and measures," is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

"SEC. 14. The sealer of weights and measures in any town or city shall receive a fee of three cents for every weight, wine or dry measure sealed by him at his office; he shall receive a fee of five cents for every yard-stick or yard-measure sealed by him; and for sealing every spring-balance of a capacity less than one hundred pounds he shall receive a fee of twenty-five cents; for every spring-balance of a capacity of one hundred and less than five hundred pounds, fifty cents; for every platform-scale of a capacity of five thousand pounds or more, one dollar; for every balance of a capacity of less than five thousand pounds, fifty cents; for every steel-yard of a capacity of fifty pounds or less, twenty-five cents; and for every steel-yard of a capacity over fifty pounds, fifty cents; every scale or balance used for weighing people shall be tested, and if found correct shall be sealed by said sealer, and he shall receive a fee of fifty cents for each and every scale or balance so sealed. If any of the said scales or balances are found to be incorrect, then they shall be condemned and their use forbidden as hereinbefore provided. For proving and sealing coal and wood baskets he shall receive a fee of fifteen cents each, and for every charcoal basket, so sealed, twenty cents; he shall also have a reasonable compensation for all repairs, alterations and adjustments which it may be necessary for him to make, made by him, and for the expenses incurred in visiting any place, as provided for in section twelve of this chapter. Such fees and compensation shall be paid to said sealer by the person owning or using the weights, measures or balances so adjusted and sealed. Every person violating the provisions of this section shall be fined not exceeding twenty dollars for each offence, one-half thereof to go to the town or city and one-half to the complainant. All said fees received by any sealer of weights and measures of any town or city shall be retained by him as compensation for his services except as hereinafter provided. Any town or city council may at any time by ordinance fix an annual salary for the sealer of weights and measures of such town or city, and in such case said fees received by him shall be paid over by him to the town or city treasurer, at the time or times prescribed by any ordinance of such town or city."

SEC. 2. All acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed, and this act shall take effect from and after its passage.

CHAPTER 355.

AN ACT In Amendment of Chapter 204 of the General Laws of the State.

(Passed May 15, 1896.)

It is enacted by the General Assembly as follows:

SECTION 1. The sum of four hundred and fifty dollars, in addition to the sums authorized by sections 2 and 5 of Chapter 204 of the General Laws, is hereby annually appropriated from any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated for the payment of necessary clerical assistance in the office of the insurance commissioner; and the state auditor is hereby authorized to draw his orders upon the general treasurer, from time to time, for the payment of the same upon receipt of proper vouchers.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect from and after its passage.

CHAPTER 356.

AN ACT Making an Additional Appropriation for the Pay of the Clerks of the House of Representatives and Senate.

(Passed May 15, 1896.)

It is enacted by the General Assembly as follows:

SECTION 1. The sum of five thousand dollars in addition to the amount heretofore appropriated is hereby appropriated for the payment of the clerks and officers of the house of representatives and the senate, and the state auditor is hereby authorized to draw his orders for such portion thereof as may be required from time to time upon the receipt by him of properly authenticated vouchers.

SEC. 2. This act shall go into effect on and after its passage.

CHAPTER 357.

AN ACT Placing the Name of William E. Clarke, Late Colonel of the United Train of Artillery, Upon the Retired List of Commissioned Officers of the Rhode Island Militia.

(Passed April 28, 1896.)

It is enacted by the General Assembly as follows:

SECTION 1. The name of William E. Clarke is hereby ordered to be placed upon the retired list of commissioned officers of the Rhode Island militia, created by act of the general assembly, entitled "An act in addition to Chapter 238 of the Public Statutes," "Of militia," entitled 'An act to create a retired list of commissioned officers of the Rhode Island militia, who shall have performed continuous service in the same for a period of ten years, &c.,'" the said William E. Clarke having been in continuous service as a commissioned officer of the Rhode Island militia from April 28th, 1863, to April 29th, 1878, with the exception of the time between April 2d, 1870, and April 29th, 1872, during which time the said William E. Clarke performed duty as an officer without commission.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect immediately.

CHAPTER 359.

AN ACT to Validate the Acts of Howard L. Clark as Notary Public.

(Passed April 30, 1896.)

It is enacted by the General Assembly as follows:

SECTION 1. All acts, matters and things done or performed by Howard L. Clark of Providence, as a notary public in the state of Rhode Island, appointed by the governor in June, A. D. 1895, and duly commissioned and engaged, but failed to file the certificate required by law, are hereby declared valid and effectual in all respects as if the said Howard L. Clark had taken the engagement prescribed by the public statutes before entering upon the duties of said office, provided the same shall not affect any pending litigation.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect from and after its passage.

I certify the foregoing to be true copies.

Mr. Booker T. Washington's Address at Channing Church.

An audience which filled the Channing Memorial Church gathered at noon yesterday, after the morning service, to listen to an address by Mr. Booker T. Washington, president of Tuskegee Institute at Tuskegee, Ala. Mr. Washington is one of the most prominent of the colored people today, and has been called the Joshua of his race. His work at Tuskegee had been in progress for fourteen years when he came into national prominence by an address at the opening of the Atlanta exposition, an address which attracted universal attention, and for which he received a personal letter of commendation from President Cleveland. He later gave another address at a meeting in Carnegie Hall, and last June was honored by Harvard College with the honorary degree of master of arts. He was born a slave, and having worked his way through Hampton Institute, was in 1881 chosen president of the Tuskegee Institute, where he has devoted his energies to the uplifting of his people, his aim being to lead them as far as he may out of immorality and illiteracy, to make them self supporting, and to impress upon them the need of their making for themselves a place in the world where their merits will be recognized and their labor can compete with the rest of the world.

Mr. Washington spoke about forty minutes, and held the closest attention of his audience to the end. He speaks rapidly and forcibly, and introduces anecdotes and illustrations which give added emphasis to the subject matter of his address. He is eloquent, and his words make a propound impression upon his hearers.

Speaking first of his own experience, he said he was born in a small one-room hut on a slave plantation in Virginia, and after the close of the war, while working in a coal mine, heard of Hampton Institute as a place where a black boy could study, could have a chance to work for his board, and at the same time be taught how to work and to realize the dignity of labor. He determined to go there and worked his way from West Virginia to Hampton, arriving there penniless. He there found the opportunity—in the way of buildings, teachers and industries provided by the generous—to get training in the classroom and by practical touch with industrial life, to learn thrift, economy and push.

His work at Tuskegee began in 1881, in a small shanty and church, with one teacher and thirty students, without a dollar's worth of property. The spirit of work and of industrial thrift, with aid from the state and generosity from the North enabled them to develop an institution of eight hundred students gathered from nineteen states, with seventy-nine instructors, fourteen hundred acres of land, and thirty buildings, including large and small: in all, property valued at $280,000. Twenty-five industries have been organized, and the whole work is carried on at an annual cost of about $80,000 in cash; two fifths of the annual expense so far has gone into permanent plant.

The problem to be solved, and for which this outlay is made, is to prepare leaders among the colored people who can live among the masses of the race and show them how to lift themselves. From the outset, in connection with religious and academic training, the institute has emphasized industrial or hand training as a means of finding the way out of present conditions. First, the industrial teaching is found to be useful in giving the student a chance to work out a portion of his expenses while in school. Second, the school furnishes labor that has an economic value, and at the same time gives the student a chance to acquire knowledge and skill while performing the labor. Most of all, the industrial system is valuable in teaching economy, thrift and the dignity of labor, and in giving moral backbone to students.

As an illustration of what is being done at Tuskegee, the speaker said that in the recent erection of a large chapel the students had made the bricks, sawed the timber at their own sawmill, done the brick masonry, plastering, carpentering work, painting, tinning and slating, and made most of the furniture, the plans having been drawn in the institute by the teachers: and as a result the institute has a fine chapel and the students have acquired a knowledge of the trades employed in its construction. In this way all but three of the thirty buildings on the grounds have been erected. While the young men do the kinds of work mentioned, the young women to a large extent make, mend and launder the clothing of the young men, and thus are taught important industries.

As a result of the work of the institute, the colored man in Alabama is becoming recognized as a worker of merit and his products are being sought for by the whites, who find it better than they can obtained elsewhere. Thus the colored man has begun the solution of the race problem for himself. He is making himself a place in the world, and gaining respect for his labor by doing it as well or better than others.

In the conclusion the speaker said: "Nothing else so soon brings about right relations between the two races in the South as the industrial progress of the negro. Friction between the races will pass away in proportion as the black man, by reason of his skill, intelligence and character, can produce something that the white man wants or respects in the commercial world. This is another reason why at Tuskegee we push the industrial training. We find that as every year we put into a Southern community colored men who can start a brick yard, a saw mill, a tin shop, or a printing office, —men who produce something that makes the white man partly dependent upon the negro, instead of all the dependence being on the other side,—a change takes place in the relations of the races.

"Let us go on for a few more years knitting our business and industrial relations into those of the white man, till a black man gets a mortgage on a white man's house that he can foreclose at will; the white man on whose house the mortgage rests will not try to prevent that negro from voting when he goes to the polls. It is through the dairy farm, the truck garden, the trades, and commercial life, largely, that the negro is to find his way to the enjoyment of all his rights."

At the conclusion of the address Rev. G. W. Cutter spoke briefly, and announced that, while Mr. Washington was not begging for funds and a collection would not be taken, contributions would be gladly received, and might be sent directly to Mr. Washington or to Rev. Mr. Cutter, who would forward them. There were present in the audience a large number of members of the congregations of other churches in the city.

THE NEWPORTS' SECOND VICTORY OVER THE MILFORD TEAM.

The Newports played their second game at Milford, Mass., Saturday, and again a very pretty contest was had. Neither side scored until the last half of the eighth inning, when on a base on balls, an error by Clancy, a single by Cotter and a double by O'Connell, four runs were made by the Newports. The pitching was very effective. The fielding honors were carried off by O'Connell and Babbitt. Warned by the poor work of Smith in Friday's game, Newport insisted on putting in Eddie Dowd to assist in the umpiring, and he did very well. The score is as follows:

Saturday at the Training Station a picked nine representing Newport defeated the apprentice boys, 20 to 9. The feature of the game was the playing of Corrigan on second.

Jim O'Rourke's Bridgeport team plays here today and tomorrow. These are the first home games in more than a week.

NATHAN G. KENYON.

The death of Nathan G. Kenyon occurred Saturday afternoon. He was advanced in years, and had been even critically ill for a long time. A few days since the case became such that he was removed to the Newport Hospital, where he died.

Mr. Kenyon, though a quiet man and of an unobtrusive disposition, was well known in the community. He was for many years a gardener in charge of the grounds of Miss Ellen F. Mason, and of her father before she came into possession of the well known villa. He was always active in religious and charitable work to the extent of his abilities. He was one of the founders of the Thames Street Methodist Episcopal Church, and at its first quarterly conference, held in 1856, his name appears as one of the class leaders. Later in life he held his membership in the First church, from which he originally went to assist in laying the foundations for the younger organization. He was firm and consistent in his convictions, upright in deportment and faithful in all life's duties to the last. His funeral will be solemnized tomorrow at his late residence.

—Mrs. Frederick D. Grant of New York is guest of Mrs. Potter Palmer.

—Mrs. R. J. Campbell of New York is visiting Mrs. John R. Caswell.

—Dunlap & Co. have issued a pretty announcement for their opening tomorrow at the One Price.

—Mr. Harry B. Bateman of Fairhaven, Washington, formerly of Newport, is in town for a few weeks.

—Mr. Jackson Guy and wife of Richmond, and Mrs. E. L. Axtell, Mr. F. F. Axtell, Mrs. W. D. Hall and Miss J. J. Fountain of Chicago are at the Kay Street House.

—The engagement is announced of Mr. Robert P. Lee, superintendent of the Newport Street railway, and Miss Helen M. Buchanan of St. John's, New Brunswick. The marriage will take place in the fall, probably at the residence of the bride's aunt at Beverly, Mass.

—DeBlois & Eldridge have rented for George Peabody Wetmore, and George L. Rives, executor of the estate of David King, the Parker cottage on the northerly side of Parker avenue, to Mr. William R. Travers for a term of three years. Mr. Travers will shortly return from Europe.

—Mr. Joseph T. Ray, a veteran of the war and a member of the One Hundred and Eighteenth Massachusetts colored regiment, has been granted, through Mr. George L. Spencer, a pension of $8 per month, for disability. Mrs. Julia Sprague, widow, has received an increase of pension dating back, and the back pay.

—Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., who sailed for Europe on steamship Majestic Wednesday last, will probably remain abroad until some time in the winter. Mr. Vanderbilt has gone to Europe principally to take the cure at Aix-les-Bains. They will probably visit the Duke and Duchess of Marlborough at Blenheim before they return to this country.

—The Seaside Athletic Club will give an athletic entertainment this evening, which will consist of a number of good features, including a ten-round bout for scientific points between Joe Kirby of this city and Tommy Stanton of Lowell, both clever boxers, and both in fine condition. There will also be a blackened glove exhibition that should be clever.

—At the bicycle meet at Narragansett Pier Saturday, C. S. Bolting, scratch man, won the first time prize, in 50:03, and A. H. Sayer of this city, with thirty seconds allowance, the second in 51:30. Sayer received $10 in gold. A. Swanson of this city, with two minutes handicap, received the fourth prize, a traveling bag, on corrected time. L. Doucette and A. L. Cummings of this city also raced.
